Saginaw Valley State University began operations in 1963 as a private institution and received a charter as a state college in 1965. The campus is located within the triangle formed by Bay City, Midland, and Saginaw. Facilities include academic and administration buildings, conference facilities, dormitories and apartments, and an athletic complex.

The undergraduate curriculum is comprehensive. Majors are offered in accounting, art, biochemistry, biology, business-chemistry, chemistry, chemical physics, communications, computer information systems, computational mathematics, computer physics, computer science, criminal justice, economics, electrical engineering, elementary education, environmental chemistry, English, finance, French, general business, general science, graphic design, history, industrial management, industrial technology and supervision, international studies, management, marketing, mathematics, mechanical engineering, medical technology, music, nursing, occupational therapy, optical physics, physical education, physics, political science and public administration, psychology, social work, sociology, Spanish, special education, and theater. Minors are offered in most of these disciplines, and also in applied writing, coaching, creative writing, German, gerontology, legal studies, natural science, philosophy, Polish, social science, and youth services.

Fourteen of the majors and 19 of the minors are available to students preparing for certification as secondary teachers. A supplementary minor in coaching may be elected. The university also provides a certification program in bilingual-bicultural education.

At the Master's degree level, the College of Education offers concentrations in classroom teaching (elementary and secondary), early childhood education, educational administration and supervision (elementary, middle school and secondary), natural science, reading, and secondary education in biology, chemistry, English, history, mathematics, natural science, and physics. A Master of Business Administration degree is conferred by the College of Business and Management. The College of Arts and Behavioral Sciences awards a Master of Arts degree in Leadership and Public Administration and a Master of Arts degree in Communications and Multimedia. The Crystal M. Lange College of Nursing and Health Sciences offers a Master of Science degree in Nursing.

Saginaw Valley State University is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission – North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business – International, the American Chemical Society (Chemistry), the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and the American Medical Association (Medical Technology), the Council of Social Work Education (Social Work), the National League for Nursing (Nursing), and the Accreditation Council for Occupational Therapy Education.
